

Women in Technology

This program helps newcomer women to start a career in IT by building essential technology skills in areas such as programming, web development and coding. In addition to industry-specific technical training, The Women in Technology program also provides women with an understanding of the Canadian workplace culture.

Two Streams Available:

- Women in Technology (Experienced)
- Women in Technology (Inexperienced)

Program Benefits Delivered by a Team of Employment Experts in your Field

- Customized one-to-one support to help you start your job search
- Orientation to your sector in Canada

- Connections to employers who are hiring in your sector
- Access to mentors who are professionals in your field

- Technical training from a recognized provider
- Business and workplace communication training in a Canadian context

- Coaching and support after you're hired

The Women in Technology program played a pivotal role in preparing me for employment in Canada. The personal attention was impressive and the program helped us target our resumes, improve our technical skills and get acquainted with Canadian culture. Guest speaker sessions enabled us to connect with people in the industry and we derived motivation from their success. With the help of the ACCES, I found employment in my field.
